CATHOLIC PERIODICALS OF THEOLOGICAL INTEREST

by

Francis L. Sheerin, S. J.
Librarian, Alma College, Los Gatos, California

This annotated bibliography formed the substance of a paper presented at a meeting of the Western Theological Library Association held at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, California, on February 28, 1958. The list includes only periodicals actually being published. It names 247 periodicals, but does not pretend to be complete; possibly it mentions all the more important titles. An attempt has been made to classify the periodicals by field or subject matter. Often they extend into more than one field, in which case they have been classified by what appears to be their predominant characteristic. The alphabetical index which is appended to the classified list has been prepared by the Editor of the Newsletter.

Remarks:

These publish documents from Church authorities, especially the Pope, without comment other than note of the origin of the document.

ACTA APOSTOLICAE SEDIS is unique in contrast to all other titles on this list, in that it gives the official text of Vatican doctrinal and administrative documents of primary importance. Doctrine in AAS is what the Church teaches, whereas doctrine in other periodicals may be only what a particular author teaches. Other documentary periodicals do not give the official text (except DISCORSI) of documents, but private translations of them.

DISCORSE E RADIOMESSAGGI gives the official text of less formal papal addresses, e.g., to conventions and to groups in audience.

Other documentary periodicals give private translations of documents.

ZEITSCHRIFT FUR KATHOLISCHE THEOLOGIE. Theologisch. Fakultat Universitat Innsbruck. Sillgasse 2, Innsbruck, Austria. v. 1, 1876- Quarterly.

Remarks:

These cover all branches of theology (hence General); treating belief rather than conduct (hence Doctrinal); with speculative treatment rather than historical or pastoral (hence Speculative); but these are merely the predominant characteristics, for these periodicals admit a variety of theological articles.

Especially noteworthy are EPHEMERIDES THEOLOGICAE LOVANIENSES for its bibliographic lists, NOUVELLE REVUE THEOLOGIQUE for its complete coverage, RECHERCHES DE SCIENCE RELIGIEUSE for its quarterly bulletins of theological literature, and all three for the excellence of their articles.

It will be noted that the majority of these periodicals are published by the faculties of major theological seminaries. Particularly noteworthy are those published by the great international seminaries in Rome - ANGELICUM by the Dominicans, ANTONIANUM by the Franciscans, and GREGORIANUM by the Jesuits.

In English, note CROSS CURRENTS, which publishes translations of articles from foreign periodicals; THEOLOGICAL STUDIES, published by United States Jesuit theological faculties, which gives quarterly surveys of theological literature and has a fairly good world reputation; THEOLOGY DIGEST, which gives digests of important articles from many sources, including non-Catholic sources.

Remarks:

These are supplementary fields (Moral dealing with divine law and commandments, e.g., man should worship God; Canon Law with ecclesiastical precepts, e.g., worship especially on Sundays and by hearing Mass); and hence these periodicals overlap.

PERIODICA DE RE MORALI, etc., is very useful for current administration of law. Other titles, e.g., ARCHIV, are more useful for history of law.

VIE SPIRITUELLE (avec SUPPLEMENT). 29 Bl. Letour Maubourg, Paris 7. v. 1, 1919- Monthly (supplement quarterly).

There are besides many other mission magazines, e.g., JESUIT MISSIONS, which have no scientific pretensions; mainly they are pictorials for the information of friends of the missions and the missionaries.
